

NANOYOU has created a very special community for schools and teachers. All the schools that register to become a NANOYOU school can become members of this new community.

Becoming members of this community, teachers will have the opportunity to exchange best practices and learn more from their peers on how to teach nanotechnologies and nanoscience in school using the NANOYOU resources.

The community also offers a forum area for discussion, a library area to search and share useful documents as well as the latest information on the activities for schools and events organised by NANOYOU.

For more information on the community and on the registration click here .
