On the 10th May took place the inauguration of the “All connected?” exhibition in the Cité des sciences et de l'industrie in Paris. The exhibition has been at the Tech Gallery of the Cité des sciences et l'industrie since April and will stay there until the end of the year.

The "All connected?" exhibition, developed by NANOYOU, includes some of the materials that where produced by youngsters from all over Europe in the NANOYOU video and picture contests.

The official opening of "All connected?" took place in October 2010 at CCSTI Grenoble , where it stayed until the end of March 2011, receiving thousands of visitors that also participated in several public events.